Manuel Quezada is very proud of his Mexican Heritage and he is on a mission to become the first ever Mexican to win the World Heavyweight Championship. Quezada is a breath of fresh air to the heavyweight division, and Quezada is not called "El Toro" for nothing. He is extremely elusive yet astonishingly powerful, and his chin seems like it is made of granite. After a background in taekwondo and kickboxing, Quezada did not begin boxing until the ripe age of 23. Unlike most fighters, Quezada turned Pro with no amateur fights, relying only on his pure natural talents and his will to win. Quezada started his boxing career going 11-4 in his first 15 contests. But Quezada used his natural talent to learn along the way, and he has he learned! Since his last loss in September of 2005 Quezada has gone undefeated for nearly 4 1/2 years reeling off 18 straight wins including a stunning first round Knockout of world rated championship contender Travis Walker in July 2009 that thrust Quezada into the #4 position in the WBC. Quezada is not like the average fighter, Quezada is a respectful young man who looks like he has never been in a fight in his life. Quezada has kept a low profile while becoming one of boxing's top prospects during his 18 fight winning streak and just shows up ready to fight for each and every fight. Quezada has recently signed with Lipeles and as a team they plan on bringing the Mexican people their first heavyweight champion!
